A GENERAL REVIEW OF WHAT IS DOING.

Prospects of the District Brighten
With Each Day.

NEW STRIKES A CONSTANT OCCURRENCE

The Deer Creek Mining Co. are on a standstill; they are doing nothing but keeping the water pumped out, but expect to start new levels in their shafts to cut the vein in the near future.

The Big Four Mining Co., A. D. Noe General Manager. They still keep their eighteen wagons running with fluor spar, but they are piling their lead and zinc up at the mines, until they can get a mill up.

Mr. A. L. Moseley of Calhoun, one of the company, was here last week. Mr. Moseley and Mr. Noe made a trip to Salem. They fell in with our old friend Capt. Haase. The Captain invited them over to the Cullen mines and very kindly showed them all around. He showed them a 19 foot 6 inch vein of lead, zinc and fluor spar, and a very large building filled with the finest machinery in the world.

This machinery is for the purpose of separating their minerals.

Messrs. Noe and Moseley purchased one twenty horse power gasoline engine from them, that they had no use for. They intend having this engine hauled to their Big Four mines. They have made plans to put up a big mill, for the purpose of separating their lead and zinc, and this engine is for the purpose of running their crusher and another larger wash-

This company intends to haul their own mineral to the railroad. Mr. Knight has a man in Missouri now, buying up forty miles; he has plans made to build a large stable at the Riley mines, and also one at Crayneville. This is a new scheme for the company to haul its own mineral, and also an excellent one.

The company is also building a number of houses for their miners at the Riley mines, and intend to put in water in each of them.

Work is progressing as rapidly as possible at the Cullen mine. To those familiar with mining operations, however, it is well known that more trifles cause far greater delays than have been anticipated. The equipment of the Eagle Fluor Spar company's mill is not a mere temporary makeshift, but everything is being put in first class order so that when once under operation the company will be prepared to treat very large quantities of ore successfully.

The Marion Zinc Co., with Mr. C. S. Knight of Ft. Wayne as President and Julius Fohs as Engineer and General Manager. We are glad to say that the 100 ton mill they are building on the Riley mines will be ready to go into operation the first of August.

They have several hundred tons of lead and fluor spar already mined, ready for milling, and Julius is making preparations to open up six new levels in the shaft, which will all be on a good vein, of lead and spar. Julius expects to keep the mill running night and day from these levels. This is the best mill that was ever put up in this section of the country. They have tables attached to this mill which takes care of the sludge and takes every particle of mineral out of it, leaving the waste material to go off on the water.

As soon as the company gets this mill in operation and everything running smooth, they will turn their attention to the Belt mines, where they are now sinking a shaft, and if they find their mineral rich enough, which Julius says he thought would be, they will build another mill at this mine at once.

This company intends to haul their own mineral to the railroad. Mr. Persons tells us that he will start a new shaft on the Paris place, close to the Memphis mine, next week. This mine will be on the Memphis vein, which the analysis shows to be one of the richest fluor spar veins in the world. The company expect to put in machinery, washers, etc., at both these mines. Mr. Persons being a practical miner knows how to take advantage of everything around a mine, therefore no doubt he will make large dividends for his company. Geo Gray is a large share holder in this company and he assists Mr. Persons in everything he can. We wish the company success.

Mr. Will S. Lowery writes the Press as follows from Salem:

I wish to say to you that on the famous LaRue vein at the Thomas

Babb property, owned by Carran Pope & Bros. of Louisville, Ky., we have struck an ore bearing vein of lead at a depth of 25 feet, and this property is within 30 feet of a shaft that was put down by the Eagle Fluor Spar company which has produced hundreds of tons of ore before it reached the depth of 65 feet. The vein here shows very much like the vein at the famous LaRue and Noe mines, showing it to be a paying vein almost from the grass roots.

This will be one of the largest producing properties in Western Kentucky in the near future, as the LaRue vein, upon which this property is located, is considered to be one of the richest in zinc and lead in the whole mining district, and the famous LaRue vein can be traced across the district, in Western Kentucky, following a true divide between two distinct geological formations.

The Mountain Lead, Zinc and Fluor Spar Co., with Judge Grear of Paducah at the head, is doing well. They are running three levels in their shaft and are getting out some very fine mineral. We made a visit to these mines the other day and was surprised to see the large piles of lead and zinc and carbonate zinc that were piled up outside.

This mine is supposed to be on the Columbia vein. Judge Grear is a very successful lawyer and it looks as though he knows as much about mining as he does about law, as he has one of the finest little plants at his mines that is in this section. His drill and all his machinery runs as smooth as a sewing machine.

The Maser-Lode Mining Co. on the Hayward place struck a very rich vein at 20 feet, and have gotten out seven pounds of lead and fluor spar. They expect to sink shaft on this property and put in the best machinery that can be gotten, with all the latest improvements. They don't believe in "Gopher" mining. These are the kind of men that will make money in this field.

NEWSPAPERS AND INDUSTRIAL LIFE.
(Mining Record.)

It is the function of a newspaper to represent and express the life, the thoughts, the deeds and the aspirations of the people in whose domain it is published. Failing to do this in any respect, it falls short to that extent in filling its place in the body social. The Northerner in picking up a Southern newspaper expects to find therein the mirror of Southern life and industry. He would doubtless deem it strange if he did not discover the leading cotton story of the day "played up" prominently in its columns. In a mining community one expects to find the press in close touch with the mining industry, and the development of mines fully recorded.

When this does not appear to be the case, the moral effect is much worse than if there were no newspaper there at all—that is, as far as the industry is concerned. To a stranger, who expects to find the industry reflected in the newspaper, but does not, there is a negative influence about this over-

EVANSVILLE'S CHANCE.

Discovery of Large Deposits of Glass Making Sand at Marion, Ky., will be Evansville's Opportunity.

Evansville Journal-News.

The discovery of very rich and almost inexhaustible sand deposits at Marion, Ky., adds another to those great commercial and industrial advantages which this city is enjoying, as there will be not only plenty of sand of the very highest quality for glass making, but the product also be brought to this city at small cost.

Glass men and others of a technical turn of mind, who have given the matter attention and caused a chemical examination of the sand to be made declare that these deposits in so close proximity to this city will doubtless make Evansville the foremost glass manufacturing center of the entire United States.

Many of the glass manufacturers who are now earnestly contemplating the removal of their plants from the former natural gas belt to other localities, will soon determine future location. It is doubtful if any other place in the country is in position to offer better reasons for the location of plants than Evansville.

Without going deeper into technical details than is necessary to interest the general public, it may be stated that the sand, which can be obtained at Marion can hardly be surpassed in its chemical composition. It produces glassware of the finest quality, and is melted in less time, or in about half the time required to melt the sand now used by the glass factories of this city.

Then again this Kentucky sand can be brought to this city for about half the present cost of shipping sand from other deposits to this city. This means, as stated by one of the principal stockholders of one of the two glass plants located here, an annual saving of about $10,000 to his firm alone, and it may therefore be easily surmised what the discovery of this deposit means to glass manufacturers generally.

Coupled with other advantages which this city offers to representatives of the glass industry, cheap coal and excellent shipping facilities being among them, the discovery of these Kentucky glass beds will not only enable Evansville to successfully compete with other glass making centers, but it will really give this city a supremacy over them all.

What will, for instance, a bonus of ten or even twenty thousand dollars mean to a glass company when, by coming to Evansville, they will be able to save annually this amount alone in the cost of transportation of sand to their factories, not taking into calculation all other advantages they will enjoy here.

Only the other day, when at a public meeting the question of securing new enterprises for the city was discussed, it was stated that it is rather difficult to accomplish much on that line at time on account of the presidential campaign, which always causes manufacturers and capitalists to be careful and make them unwilling to engage in any new business enterprises, but now we have this new and truly splendid gift of nature laid right at our door, a gift which will undoubtedly bring a number of new glass plants to the city without the people having to offer them anything in the way of financial aid, because, as already indicated, it does not even take a very enterprising and far seeing glass man to find that what Evansville is able to offer him in the way of natural and other advantages can hardly be duplicated by any other place.

JUDGE MUIR DROWNED.

Judge Upton W. Muir, of Louisville was drowned while bathing Wednesday, July 20th, at Cape May, where he and his family had a cottage for the summer. He was standing in about two feet of water when he was seen to fall forward on his face. His body was found floating, but all efforts to resuscitate him were in vain. The verdict of the coroner's jury was accidental drowning.

Of him the Courier-Journal of the 21st says:

Judge Muir was a man who will be missed by the community, as well as by his friends. A good citizen, a good judge, upright, studious and ambitious he is cut off in the prime of his manhood and at the beginning of a professional career of honorable achievement and conspicuous promise.

A member of one of the best known Southern families, a gentle man by birth and training, educated soundly, well grounded in his profession, among his associates at the bar and among men of affairs he had made his way to an eminent position on the bench which few of his years reach, and had won popular respect and confidence to a degree that but for his untimely fate would have assured him long an honored and useful part in the community.

Whether as "Up" Muir, friend and associate, or Judge Muir, the able and trusted official, the sorrow that follows his death is extended and unaffected.

Killed by Lightning.

Hopkinsville, Ky., July 20—News has just been received of two deaths from lightning during the thunderstorm that visited this county yesterday afternoon, about 5 o'clock. Mitus Miner, living near Pembroke, was killed while hunting with an older brother. They were under a tree and lightning struck the tree, the current passing down a grapevine and killing Miner. The other brother escaped uninjured. Miner was a farmer 24 years of age and unmarried.

DEATH OF CAPT. WOOD.

Capt. John Taylor Wood, who was a grandson of President Zachariah Taylor and nephew of President Jefferson Davis, died in Halifax, N. S., July 19.

Mr. Wood, who was born in Minnesota, entered the United States navy as midshipman in his seventeenth year and served in the Mexican war. During the civil war he was with the confederate army and served as colonel on the staff of Jefferson Davis and with Lee's army. His daring work as a blockade runner attracted much attention. At the close of the war he escaped with General Breckinridge to Florida, crossed to Cuba in an open boat and later came to Halifax.

He had been for many years secretary of the harbor pilotage commission in the city of Halifax, N. S.

A Few Words About Optics!

No age is exempt from the use of glasses. They are placed on a child that is more than able to talk as well as on the aged patriarch who finds them indispensable to his happiness and comfort. Indeed it is an indisputable fact that every person who lives to reach the age of fifty or more requires glasses at some period of his life either for reading or distance. To many persons they are absolutely necessary at all ages, while those whose eyes are perfectly emmetropic require them for reading in middle life on account of changes wrought in the eyes by age. Persons with weak eyes and who were never conscious of any defect in their sight are enabled by a careful adjustment of glasses to see in a manner they never before thought possible; although the use of glasses was at first due to an incidental discovery. Their adjustment is now placed on a higher plane which is controlled by the unvarying laws of mathematics. If your eyes are giving you trouble I can fit them with the proper glasses. I don't charge you an enormous price. My prices are reasonable and I guarantee satisfaction or refund your money. EYES EXAMINED FREE.

YOUR KIDNEYS ARE THEY WELL?

Unless they are, good health is impossible.

Every drop of blood in the body passes through and is filtered by healthy kidneys every three minutes. Sound kidneys strain out the impurities from the blood, diseased kidneys do not, hence you are sick. FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE makes the kidneys well so they will eliminate the poisons from the blood. It removes the cause of the many diseases resulting from disordered kidneys which have allowed your whole system to become poisoned.

Rheumatism, Bad Blood, Gout, Gravel, Dropsy, Inflammation of the Bladder, Diabetes and Bright's Disease, and many others, are all due to disordered Kidneys. A simple test for Kidney disease is to set aside your urine in a bottle or glass for twenty-four hours. If there is a sediment or a cloudy appearance, it indicates that your kidneys are diseased, and unless something is done they become more and more affected until Bright's Disease or Diabetes develops.

FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE is the only preparation which will positively cure all forms of Kidney and Bladder troubles, and cure you permanently. It is a safe remedy and certain in results.

If You are a sufferer, take FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE at once. It will make you well.

Some Pronounced Incurable

Mr. G. A. Stillson, a merchant of Tampico, Ill., writes: "FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE is meeting with wonderful success. It has cured some cases here that physicians pronounced incurable. I myself am able to testify to its merits. My face today is a living picture of health and FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE has made it such."

Had Lumbar and Kidney Trouble

Edward Huss, a well known business man of Salisbury, Mo., writes: "I wish to say for the benefit of others, that I was a sufferer from lumbar and kidney trouble, and all the remedies I took gave me no relief. I began to take FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE, and after the use of three bottles I am cured."

BAKER.

They have succeeded in getting the church seated at this place.

Last third Sunday was Children's Day; exercises in the forenoon and the church would not near hold the crowd. In the midst of the exercises Mr. E. L. Nunn presented the church with a nice pulpit chair, which was greatly appreciated by both church and pastor. You always find Mr. Nunn's doors open to his friends and his purse open to the needy. After services there was a bountiful dinner spread, which everyone seemed to enjoy.

After the dinner was over there was a fine sermon by the pastor, Rev. U. G. Hughes.

We want it remembered that we have prayer meeting here every Saturday night.

And by the way, if it is not out of place, we would like to have Mr. E. L. Nunn for our next county judge and J. P. Samuels for assessor.

For President,

Of West Virginia.

For Congress,
OLLIE M. JAMES.

The many friends of ex-Senator George G. Vest will be pained to learn that he is growing very feeble and will hardly last out the summer. He is now at the Sweet Springs, Mo., and during the past year has contributed a series of articles to the Saturday Evening Post, reminiscent of various public men and events, and has thus made some valuable addenda to current history. Born at Frankfort, Ky., some 75 years ago, the career of Senator Vest has been a remarkable one. He has been a Senator of two Republics, forced to flee as a rebel, again a Senator, always a statesman and ever the cultured gentleman. No man in the Senate of the United States was a match for George G. Vest in debate when at his prime, and not one of his opponents but feared to couch lance with him in the forensic arena. He was quick at repartee, incisive in attack, caustic, with a flow of biting sarcasm, but always good humored and courteous, and many of his distinguished opponents have carried to their graves the stings of his merciless sarcasm. Though in the public service some forty years, Senator Vest is comparatively a poor man. Being a statesman instead of a politician explains this lack of wealth. The state of his health will be watched with anxious solicitude by his hosts of Kentucky friends; and when time ceases for him and he "shuffles off this mortal coil"; when the evening of life closes in and the shadow of death appears, he will sink to his rest, after this life of usefulness and honor, "as one who wraps the drapery of his couch about him and lies down to pleasant dreams."

Tom Taggart has been elected Chairman of the Democratic National Committee—after that honor had been refused by several Eastern parties. Well, Tom will whoop up things in the West.

The Government did a wise and deserving thing when they gave the flourishing town of Salem a double daily mail service, which puts the "Hub" of this mineral belt in direct communication with the outside world. As now arranged the people of the View and Salem vicinity get their daily papers from Louisville on the date of issue. This is 18 hours sooner than Salem has previously enjoyed, and we congratulate our sister city on this new arrangement. The contractor on this route is Sherrod Hale, and the price $425 per year should pay him handsomely.

The suffrage plank in the Republican National platform is already bearing its legitimate fruit. At various points in the North the colored brother is "claiming his rights" to social recognition—and is not getting them, despite Presidential recognition and protection. From a personal standpoint the PRESS is in favor of letting every man select his own social equal. If President Roosevelt or any other man thinks the negro his equal socially he has the right to do so; it is a mere matter of taste and breeding. Let them enjoy it in peace.

There is not much doing, as yet, in the political field. The line of battle is being formed; the various divisions are being inspected and assigned their positions, and everything is being placed in readiness for a big fight. Both parties are on the alert and about the first of September the battle will open in earnest all along the line. In fact, some of the rural roosters are already firing their popguns into circumambient space.

TEACHERS INSTITUTE.

The Crittenden county teachers institute convened at the graded school Monday morning, July 25, and was called to order by Supt. J. B. Paris.

J. R. Glass was elected president; Miss Maggie Moore vice president, C. M. Allen 2d vice.

W. H. Watson was elected secretary and Miss Addie Boyd assistant.

About sixty teachers are enrolled at this writing.

Supt. Paris announced that all of the teachers must attend the fall session of the institute, if their certificates would be valid and he hoped we would make this a week of school business, and urged on the teachers the importance of prompt attendance.

The following committees were appointed:

On Music—Misses Fanny Gray and Margaret Moore.

On Program—T. F. Newcom, Miss Addie Boyd and M. F. Poage.

On motion, J. E. Chittenden was made an honorary member.

Mr. Shultz of Hartford, representing the American Book Co., was introduced and spoke very highly of the Crittenden county schools.

Prin. R. E. Williams of Owingsboro, representing the Southern School Journal, was introduced. He spoke of the importance of reading good educational journals.

MONDAY AFTERNOON.

Instructor, J. C. Willis took charge of the institute, making an announcement in reference to the work of the institute during the session.

He said, in brief: I want to make every hour of this week useful to you; we should not complain, but feel free to act and take part in the work before us. He urged teachers to be free to ask questions and enliven themselves. Education is the process bringing out one's powers and drawing out the powers of the child. Instruction is bringing out the facts.

His talk was very impressive, and no doubt opened the way to a very interesting session.

Supt. J. B. Paris was at his post during the day and by his practical talks and suggestions added vim and life to the first day's work.

Rev. J. F. Price was an active visitor, and by his reading interested the teachers very much.

TUESDAY MORNING.

Music; roll call.

The following teachers discussed topics during the morning hours:

Rev. J. F. Price, Mrs. Fannie Walker, Miss Ida Bebout, J. C. Willis, Prof. Williams, Miss Woods, Miss Mary Moore, J. R. Glass, P. M. Ward, Miss Annie Fluley.

Afternoon.

Music Roll Call Recitation Object—W. H. Powell. Opened this discussion—To test the pupil knowledge to polish and improve the expression.

C. E. Thomas—To give more room for expression. This is the best place in the school room for culture.

Method of Recitation—C. E. Newcome—We generally teach as we are taught—but we should vary the recitation use different methods.

Discussion was followed by Mr. Fritts.

Oral and Written Recitation—Mr. Fritts—I may sometimes use the lecture method.

Class Tactics—Mr. McChesney—The manner in which the class recites is the tactics going on from the recitation.

Just Here the Talks Were Full of Life—Mr. McChesney would not take any thing back. But held his ground.

Preparation of Lesson—By L. E. Hard by the pupil he should make himself well acquainted with the lesson. The teacher should be well versed in the lesson before recitation, he uses the outline and topical plans.

How to Study—By Rev. J. F. Price. He said I like to take a thorough outline of the whole book and they take it up separate.

Further discussed by Miss Lena Woods and Mr. Wilborn. To know its relation to other studies.

Miss Ida Bebout and Mr. Glass, in a very interesting talk followed by the instructor.

The best scholars are not made in school or college, but in the private library.

R. M. Allen, the teacher talks too loud and too long and by doing this he loses his influence with the class. Recess.

Reading methods was well discussed by Miss Mary Moore.

Miss Alice Griffith, formerly of this county but now of Mexico, is a pleasant caller also.

Miss Effie Farres, of Cane Valley, Ky., and N. T. Graves, Hawesville, Ky.

WEDNESDAY MORNING.

Reading of Scripture and Prayer—By J. C. Willis.

Music; Roll call—By Prof. N. T. Graves was made an honorary member.

Mind Study of the Physical being was thoroughly discussed by the instructor.

Miss Verna Casner Story Telling in Language Work.

Such Stories—Natural incidents are the best stories I think.

Miss Margaret Moore—The power of pictures as observation lessons, different puppets see different things in pictures.

Paragraphs—Never found any difficulty in teaching that some time have them to tell of some journey real or imaginary.

Use of Pronouns—By Miss Cordia Wehrle teaches the different forms as I, he, him also in possessive forms, as yours etc. Forms of case as non, obj and passively discussed followed.

Mr. Stevens—The uses of the names in their singular and plural forms.

Discussed by Messers. Glass, Davis and Miss Addie Boyd.

Percentage—By Mr. Fritt. He gave a good method of teaching. Discussion by Mr. Dyre.

Square Root—Mr. C. R. Newcome gave his method by solving a problem and explaining.

I have a good wheat drill, only used one season, which I received on a debt; will sell at a very low price.

WE ARE STILL HERE

The old reliable grocery firm of Hearin & Son are still doing business at the old stand and will sell you as many goods for your money as any other house in town, quality considered. Bear in mind we bank on the quality of our goods and say they are as good as the market affords. Our 18 years among you give you an opportunity to know how we treat our customers and how we appreciate your trade, and to the farmer element will say, for years we have paid you more for your produce than any one else and are still doing so.

Chix and eggs 10 cts per pound and 10 cts per dozen at our house, and all other produce in proportion. We shipped first car of ice ever shipped to Marion and are still in the trade and asking your patronage.

Ice bills all due first of the month; please be ready to settle when your accounts is presented, as we need the money. Then others come and go but we stay with you the year around and feel that we merit your trade. We will be at Piney again this year, better prepared to cater to your wants than ever before. Boys bring your girls around while we are here and let them try our cold drinks and confections.

Thanking one and all for the many past favors and asking for a continuance of same, we are, respectfully, yours to please,

A BRAND NEW FIRM.

The Press takes off its hat to the new old firm, or the old new firm of McConnell & Stone, who will next Saturday throw open the doors of the only cash store in Crittenden county.

Only a few months ago Mr. Stone out of a sense of duty to his wife, who was in failing health, sold his interest in this store and removed to California. The sunshine and balmy atmosphere of the Southern Pacific coast was beneficial to Mrs. Stone, and with her health restored the family soon turned their thoughts to their old Kentucky home, and were not long in getting their affairs in shape to return.

Mr. Stone, always a popular man in Marion, has had numerous propositions to go into business, but the past experience with his old partner had been so pleasant that he decided to seek no further, and when he landed here a week ago he found the place open to him and he readily accepted it. This makes a strong team—one has plenty of caution, the other plenty of enthusiasm, and both plenty of energy. We speak for them a liberal patronage, and the success they deserve.

Those who think they must either go without or buy cheap jewelry when they have a limited amount of money to spend should see the many good and tasteful things we have that are moderately priced.

LETTER FROM COLORADO.

By permission, the PRESS publishes extracts from the following interesting letter written by Miss Estelle Walker, formerly of Marion, to her friend, Miss Sadie Runkin, of this city:

GRAND JUNCTION, CO., July 1904—MY DEAR SADIE: This is one of those Sunday afternoons that might be summed up thusly: "Otaz'ell": Hot, hot, hot, and more especially to me as I just returned Friday night from my first camping trip which, if you will be patient, I'll endeavor to describe.

Thursday, June 30th, a merry party, composed of Mrs. Eugene Smith, as chaperone, her little daughter, Misses Mary Wear, May Rice, and three Rice brothers, including Ralph, and myself, hit the pike about 9:30 a. m., for the mountains. Six of us went in a mountain wagon, which was loaded with eatables of every kind, blankets, comforts, axes, stoves, dish pans, but no wash pans, this being forgotten. It was accidentally and artfully arranged that the chaperone and the oldest Rice boy should go before in a buggy, my little Kentucky pacer pulling this honored couple.

The day was especially fine for mountain climbing as the sun covered its face with a cloud. I suppose the sight was more than it could bear. Of course we went up and up and round and round, and some places on the route would have caused a more fragile and inexperienced (?) crowd of girls to have uttered the scream that is often evoked by the appearance of a mouse, but this set of Western ladies were as composed as if they had been at the banquet table; perhaps more so.

As we wended our way up Pinon mesa we could look back and see the stretch of green valley below, in which lies Grand Junction. Most of the road was narrow, rocky and dusty, winding around the mountain side, which sustained no vegetation save sedge brush, until we were nearing our stopping place. We had our dinner on a rock in the desert land; however a pine tree gave us shade.

The first night we spent at Goldby's lake, a resort of town tortured people seeking solitude. There are 15 or 20 cabins here and we occupied two of these, as we could not reach our own camping ground until the next day. I don't think I shall ever forget the bed, or rather board, I occupied that night. It was only a bunk, with rough boards several inches apart upon it. The boys put some pine boughs over the boards to soften them, but when I recited I found that neither the cracks nor the boards were large enough to hold me, so I laid partly in a crack and partly on a board; such a night! Well, put yourself in my place and see how many nightmares you will have. But of course we had a good time, though hard the bed and dark the night, and we girls were having a gay time when some one knocked on our door and requested us to be quiet, as there was a sick lady next door. Well, my first impression was that the boys were fooling us, but one of them had so disguised his voice that we all quieted down. You can imagine our chagrin next morning when we gave ourselves away and the boys gloried over us, for I had guessed right. But vengeance was ours, and before the week was over the boys found stones in their bed and chips in their biscuit.

The second day the girls spent at Goldby's while the boys blazed a trail and cut a road to the place where we were to pitch our tent. All this was of course new to me, and seemed, indeed, primeval, as no man had yet camped on this spot that knew only the haunts of the deer and the coyote.

We reached here about 7:30 P. M. and immediately fixed up the tent and made a bed for the boys. This night I slept in a tent with the other four of the feminine job, but teased her after she had gender, and by being little I got finished the book for giving us a to repose in the middle and came pointer on how to interest the "nigh freezin" to death, but when the sun broke forth I thawed out and was limber enough.

The following days were spent in various ways. As a matter of necessity we had to cook, and as a matter of exquisite joy we did. My appetite grew and grew and still it grows. I weighed only 93 when left but I think I am nearing half a ton by now. Mrs. Smith and I, and the two boys would take turns about every other meal cooking, so work was easy and rest was sweet.

The scenery was inspiring, tho' not near so grand as many views in Colorado. The symmetrical spruce, the rugged pine and the stately quaking asp, gave us our shade and shelter, as well as furnished logs for the log cabin which the boys built on the claim they were taking. The mountain stream was refreshing to the tired eye and the parched throat that the Grand River fails to rest or cool. That water was fine. Cold! my, but I shiver now when I imagine myself at the spring early in the morning giving my sunburned countenance a dash from this crystal spring.

Never say I havn't seen a frozen dishrag on the fourth of July; for verily I have. Every night was cold, simply COLD, and ice was often on the log by the spring in the early morning, but it was not there long after the sun shone upon it—for the sun was warm a plenty.

I became quite a Walker and climber. Two evenings I walked about six miles each, up hill and down, over rocks and level ground and still I am not worn out. I went hunting late one evening but everything had gone to rest and so we killed not a thing; but the next day I killed a snake, all by myself. Of course I used a stick for this instead of a rifle.

But of all the trip I believe I enjoyed the nights around the camp fire most of all. After supper was over and dusk had given way to darkness we would get our extra shawls and coats and gather around the burning logs to sing or tell ghost or other stories, or discuss whatever came up. I did not join in the singing as I am still "tuneless" Estelle Walker, but while the others sang it gave us exquisite pleasure to listen; and to look at the tall, dark pines, outlined against the starry sky, or gaze into the hot embers and dream of the "old folks at home". Often in our conversation and songs we would hear the weird howl of the coyote and I would thrill with a feeling that must be akin to the sensations that crept over our great grandfathers and moved them to people the wilds of the great west. That must have been a deep and romantic life lead only by the brave and fearless, for when those weird yelps are heard, and the lonely scene is studied, it would make a faint heart grow fainter, but a strong soul far stronger. It seems to me that any mortal with a touch of thankfulness or a grain of mental power could be good in such a land and be filled with reverence for the One who alone could give us such wealth.

I was never in a more congenial crowd—not a quarrel took place, but all was peace, save for the "knocks" that were laughingly thrown at one another. You know in every crowd there is always the "black sheep," or the one who is continually joked or making blunders. Well, I was surely the black sheep of the "Rice camp." Poor Kentucky and the Sontis, how I did have to battle for them! But it was a happy battle and all sides won. Of course I was always saying "I reckon," and "you all," or "you all and we all," and such things, and constantly was I teased, but I still am a Kentuckian through it all. Our chaperone was all right. She got extremely interested in the crisis and came very near forgetting us, and we did not bother to remind her of her gender, and by being little I got chaperone. Let me tell you; take me interest holding book and all will be well. Now don't think that she didn't fulfill her position for more than once were we advised, especially the youngest couple. We soon had been requested to quit water fighting.

Oh, I wish I could say everything I would like to tell you, but it seems impossible, so you must pardon the illaged arrangement of these thoughts. I had almost concluded that oh! a mountain life for me! Still I am too loyal to Old Kentucky to say that a thing I saw was more beautiful than the blue hills and green fields of the corn cracker state.

We returned to Grand Junction Friday night at half past nine, a study and a sunburned crowd. You would hardly know me; my face is almost blistered; but I am willing to blister again if I get a chance, for my looks are not taken into consideration when such pleasure is in sight. I only wish that you and Lena and all I left behind were here to help me enjoy the grandeur of Colorado.

Well, Sadie, I am happy to announce that we move tomorrow in to a seven room house with a yard in front and a lot behind it. I will be so glad to get into a room of my own again.

We are all well except mama. She is not feeling very good but I expect it is because she had all the work to do last week. Kathie is home but Lavine didn't come, as Leslie has typhoid. Hick is not in Denver yet, he goes tomorrow. Uncle Walter Brown's family moved here last week, so there is quite a colony of us.

Well, I expect by the time you read all this you will be worn out, so I will say goodby.

Yours sincerely,
ESTELLE.

Domestic Troubles.

It is exceptional to find a family where there are no domestic ruptures occasionally, but these can be lessened by having Dr. King's New Life Pills around. Much trouble they save by their great work in Stomach and Liver troubles. They not only relieve you, but cure, 25c, at Woods & Orme's Drug Store.

Safeguard the Children.

Notwithstanding all that is done by boards of health and charitably inclined persons, the death rate among small children is very high during the hot weather of the summer months in the large cities. There is not probably one case of bowel complaint in a hundred, however, that could not be cured by the timely use of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhea Remedy. Dragging Pains

2825 Keeley St.,
CHICAGO, ILL., Oct., 2, 1902.

I suffered with falling and congestration of the womb, with severe pain through the groins. I suffered terribly at the time of menstruation, had blinding headaches and rushing of blood to the brain. What to try I knew not, for it seemed that I had tried all and failed, but I had never tried Wine of Cardui, that blessed remedy for sick women. I found it pleasant to take and soon knew that I had the right medicine. New blood seemed to course through my veins and after using eleven bottles I was a well woman.

Mrs. Bush

Mrs. Bush is now in perfect health because she took Wine of Cardui for menstrual disorders, bearing down pains and blinding headaches when all other remedies failed to bring her relief. Any sufferer may secure health by taking Wine of Cardui in her home. The first bottle convinces the patient she is on the road to health.

TELL HER SO.

Amid the cares of married life,
In spite of toil and business strife
If you value your sweet wife
Tell her so!

Prove to her you don't forget
The bond to which your seal is set
She's of life's sweetest the sweetest yet,
Tell her so!

When days are dark and deeply blue,
She has her troubles, same as you

Show her that your love is true —
Tell her so!

In former days you praised her style
And spent much care to win her smile
'Tis just as well now worth your while —
Tell her so!

There was a time you thought it bliss
To get the favor of one kiss,
A dozen now won't come amiss —
Tell her so!

Your love for her is no mistake,
You feel it dreaming or awake,
Don't conceal it; for her sake

Tell her so!

You'll never know what you have missed,

If you make love a game of whist
Lips mean more than to be kissed

Tell her so!

Don't act, if she has passed her prime,
As though to please her were a crime;

If e'er you loved her now's the time,
Tell her so!

She'll return for each caree

An hundred fold of tenderness,
Hearts like hers were made to bless!

Tell her so!

You are her's and her's alone,
Well you know she's all your own

Don't wait to "carve it on a stone"

Tell her so!

Never let her heart grow cold,
Richer beauties will unfold,

She is worth her weight in gold,

Tell her so!

Answer to last week's puzzle:
The 37th chapter of Isaiah and the 19th chapter of 2nd Kings are alike.

The first correct answer received was from Ruby Braswell, Marion. Others who sent correct answers:

Rebie Bell, Homer Crider, Lily Gass, Johnnie V. Hughes, Susie Boston, all of Marion, and Velina Mayes, Shady Grove.

This week's puzzle:

Why is an avaricious man like one with a short memory?

She was a little tot of 6 or there about, and the dinner was evidently to her liking, for she ate with gusto and not much moderation. Finally her cherry countenance took on a look of pain and she began to fumble with her chubby hands about the waist line.

"What is the matter, dear?" questioned the nurse.

"My petticoat is choking me!" she answered.

Linda, 6 years old, was enjoying a half cantalope filled with crushed ice. Suddenly turning to the landlady she exclaimed: "Mrs Walker, you can cook cantaloupes mighty good."

The Funny Little Boy.

A woman standing in the door, His mother I suppose,

Would often chide the little one For soiling all his clothes;

Or, seeking to entrap him home, In vain her wits employ.

He'd laugh and scamper out of reach,

The funny little boy.

One day I missed the little rogue

When passing thro' the street; I missed his voice and on the pave The patter of his feet.

I cast a glance upon his home, As oft I'd done before, concern to them as the lives and actions of their representatives in congress or the price of electric lights. Every mine has its name and some of them are exceedingly picturesque. When it produces heavily, makes an important strike or changes ownership Jones meets Smith on the street in the early morning and remarks: "I see by the Press that the Old Jim is making great showing in her tenth level. "Her," mind you. Mines have sex—the sex about which romance is woven in the language of endearment.

I saw a bow of ribbon white Hung on the cottage door.

MINING NEWS.

What an agreeable citizenship a mining country has when every one likes to know what is going on at the mines.

It is a lamentable fact, however, that in some towns and cities, not very many, the Press is glad to say, there are newspapers which do not appear to be aware that there is a mine within a thousand miles of their printing presses. They indicate by their lack of interest in the matter that they regard mining as a purely mythical industry, or distantly historical at the best, an industry in which King Solomon is reported to have engaged at some time or other.

A newspaper of this kind not only throws cold water upon an industry of great importance right at its doors, but it defeats its own interests, because the newspapers which must plead to this impression probably owe their existence largely, though indirectly, to the activity of the mines. The population and wealth of the sections to which they appeal have been gained in great measure, through the development of neighboring mining resources.

The Press is a newspaper, but it does not pretend to reflect the life of any one district alone. It is therefore in a position to comment upon the shortcomings of the Press in the matter of mining news.

It knows enough about the different mines to prove to the satisfaction of any one that some papers, which do their districts and states justice in the matter of mining news cannot plead the excuse that the mining news is not to be had. The mines are there and the mineral wealth is being produced. The public wants these matters recorded, and it wants the mutual interests of its community made known to the outside world, and we will publish all legitimate mining news at all times. Our past record proves that: so if you any "news" let us have it but don't try to hide it under bushel.

The Ky. Fluor Spar Co. have the water out of the Memphis mines, and have put in some new machinery up at the old air shaft, where they expect to take 25 tons of No. 1 spar per day. There are also working the Klondike to its fullest capacity. They are also putting in machinery at the Brown and Ward shaft, on the Tabb vein for the purpose of cleaning this shaft out. This shaft was sunk several years ago for silver, but the old dump shows they went through a magnificent vein of fluor spar. This is what the company are after. They are taking out about 30 tons per day at the Asbridge mine, and about 10 tons of No. 1 spar per day from the Tabor mine. Mr. Reed tells us that he has also cut a new vein at the Yandell mines and is getting a good output of a very fine quality of spar from this mine.

We are glad to say that the mine on the Terry place, near the Memphis mines, run by Mr. Fred Robertson and Rev. Conway, is doing well. They are on a 7 foot vein of lead and spar. They have been selling the most of their No. 1 fluor spar to the Ky. Fluor Spar Co. They expect to start up more levels in the near future and get a good output and go into the market themselves. The quality of their fluor spar is as good as the Memphis, which is the best in the world.

The Marion Mineral Co. is still running their Pogue mines on a large scale. They are mining about 40 tons of gravel spar per day and if they can get their pump to work satisfactory to give them water they expect to wash their output. They have a double log washer already built but can not run it on account of being short of water. They also have their machinery ready for operation at the Miller mines, and are now drilling for water. As soon as they can strike water sufficient to run their washer they expect to wash a car load of carbonate per day.

The Lucile Mining Co., located on the railroad at Marion, is still pumping water and they are getting out some very fine mineral. Mr. Finley thinks he is close to a rich vein of zinc. We hope he is right in this and we have every reason to believe that he is, as he gets out some very fine samples sometimes. All the business people of Marion ought to be under many obligations to Mr. Finley for the reason that he furnishes the water to lay the dust upon the streets, otherwise they would have to keep their doors closed this hot windy weather.

The Blue & Nunn "nine acres," or "Little Jim," (as it is known by either name) is on the Columbia vein and joins the Columbia mine. This is a lead and zinc mine, and more lead than zinc. We can safely say without exaggeration that this is one of the richest lead mines in the world. They have not tried to take any mineral, out by drifting, but in sinking their shaft they took a large quantity of lead and zinc out, which they can sell for more than ten times the amount it cost them to sink their shaft. The deeper they go the richer it gets.

The Columbia Mining Co. is mining about 25 tons of No. 1 fluor spar per day at their Mary Belle. Sup't Drescher expects to open another shaft on this vein next month and double his output. He also expects to have his new tables at the Columbia zinc mines in operation the first week in August; then he expects to put in a full force of miners in the Columbia shaft and run the mill night and day. They have not been pushing their mines yet on account that they were losing 13 per cent. of their zinc in their sludge. These new tables are for the purpose of taking care of the zinc that was going away in the sludge before. Mr. Drescher has run a cross-cut level from the Columbia shaft and has cut the Eureka vein, which is very rich with lead; they also have a good carbonate vein on their property, which they expect to open up as soon as the new tables go into operation.

When you see men of the caliber of Leslie Moseley coming into a community it is a source of congratulation to that community. Mr. Moseley is cashier of the bank of Calhoun, Ky., one of the very best towns on Green River, and has occupied the position for several years with credit to himself and profit to his constituency. The alluring prospects in this mining field have brought him here with his kinsman, A. D. Noe, of Morganfield. Together they are developing the "Big Four" mine near Levias and Sheridan, one of the best in this wonderful district.

A new use for our minerals has been found. The Japanese Government has contracted with a smelter company of Joplin, Mo., for 1,000 tons of spebler. It is said this spebler is to be used in building fortifications and battleships. It will take the smelter a month to fill the order.

The mining interest is brightening up, and sentiment is more hopeful since the substantial mills of the Eagle Fluor Spar Co. and the Marion Zinc Co. are completed. It looks more like business.
